DAHLIA PLANTS

We quote concluding paragraph of article appearing page 34, October 1926 issue, Bulletin of American Dahlia Society.

"The writer generally has from fifty to seventy-five acres planted each year and nine-tenths of them are from cuttings. This has been our practice for years and we feel satisfied that the cutting gives the best results, both in roots and flowers."

R. Vincent, Jr.

The late Mr. Vincent was president of American Dahlia Society last year.
